Recessed base for Double-burner lamp

Recess your double-burner lamps with these bases and use the lamps as marker lamps on the side.

Recessed bases for your double-burner lamps. That gives you the opportunity to have the double-burners build-in into your side panels and use them as marker lamps without having them stick out too much and thereby also having them protected from blows.

The bases are available with a depth of 12mm or 32mm respectively and that gives you the opportunity to give your truck a special look. The bases are potted in hard impact-resistant plastic and the screw holes are also marked.

The bases can be used with all our double-burner that you can find under related products down below. The bases are sold separately.
