Adapter for position light in side indicator for MAN 2020+

Simple adapter that connects to the turn signal down by the front fender, allowing the lamp to function as a position light.

A simple adapter that connects to the indicator light near the front fender, making the lamp function as a position light with reduced brightness. When blinking, it lights up again at full strength.

The original connector is removed, and the adapter is inserted in between. The long 5m cable then needs to be connected to the position light on the truck.

The adapter uses original connectors, and the control is embedded. Please note that the indicator light is not approved for use as a position light.
